BELIEVING as I do, that PROVIDENCE, at Fairfax Court-House, would be a suitable situation for mechanics of the above description, I offer to such, lots in that village for sale, on ground rent for ever—will build and furnish suitable houses and rent to them, or furnish brick to them to build with; and invite any who feel disposed to settle there, for the purpose of carrying on their respective trades to advantage, to come and view the situation. It is a very public place, the centre of the county, where the superior and county courts are held. The Little River Turnpike Road passes through this little town from Alexandria westward, and where all the public meetings for the county, &c. are held; and where trades of the aforesaid description being carried on, would meet with great encouragement, and be a public convenience to the country around. No situation can be more healthy—good water, and fire wood cheap. Mechanics of the above description must generally depend on the country people, farmers, &c. to be their customers. Here they would be in a convenient situation for all the purposes. I invite a call, and view for themselves. I would also furnish lots adjacent, from one to five acres each, for cultivation, pasture, &c. on moderate terms; all of which can be shown, and terms made known, on application to RICH'D. RATCLIFFE,

I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. I will give twenty dollars, if taken in the county of Fairfax, or district of Columbia; if beyond that distance, the above reward, provided he is secured in jail so that I get him again. For Sale or Lease,

THE following tracts of land in Charles county, Maryland: one lying on the Potomac, at the mouth of Pomonkey creek, containing three hundred and forty acres, about 16 miles from Alexandria, the larger portion level land, of a stiff soil, well adapted to the cultivation of corn, wheat and tobacco, and equal in fertility to any in the neighborhood. On this farm is one of the most elegant sites for building of all those fine heights which border the Potomac, commanding the most extensive view of the adjacent country, both in Virginia and Maryland, for more than twenty miles up and down the river: located in a genteel neighborhood, it would make an agreeable residence, and from its proximity to market, with the advantage of the best navigation, an extremely profitable farm.—The tenant's houses would accommodate the negroes for its cultivation.

A Tract, about one mile back from the former, containing 334 acres, a large portion in wood, white and red oak, and some chesnut; the remainder a tenement in tolerable repair, the whole a high stiff soil, similar to the one above mentioned.

A Tract, lying at the mouth of Mattawoman Creek, about 25 miles from Alexandria, the whole first rate flat river land, now completely enclosed.—On this tract is a noted fishery, called Rum Point, at which there has been cleared upwards of two thousand dollars per annum, and where independent of the fish sold on the shore, there might be put up from one to two thousand barrels every season; besides the profits of the fishery, the advantage of manuring the farm with the offal of the shore, the whole, with a small portion of industry, might be made to produce ten barrels of corn per acre. On the shore, are a dwelling house, houses for holding salt, and curing any quantity of fish, and for the accommodation of hands.

A Tract, lying about 14 miles from the last mentioned, containing 236 acres, more than 200 of which are in wood, and would cut from 25 to 30 cords per acre, within one mile of the river, where wood has rarely sold for less than five dollars per cord. It will be divided into 50 or 25 acre lots, to suit purchasers.—If preferred, the wood will be sold standing, for so much per acre.

If not disposed of, previous to the first day of Sept. next, the above mentioned arable lands, will be leased out, upon advantageous terms, for five or seven years, at the option of the lessees.

Application to be made to the subscriber, residing near the head of Mattawoman Creek, Charles county, Maryland.

TUESDAY, JULY 6, 1819.

A comet was observed a few evenings since in the north-west. It is distinctly visible to the naked eye about an hour after sunset, at an elevation of ten or fifteen degrees above the horizon. It seems to have passed its perihetion and to be receding from the sun. It is probably the same which was mentioned some time since in the English papers as having been observed in the constellation Cyenus.

A FRIEND OF THE CONSTITUTION.—NO. VI.

Hampden has deemed it proper to introduce his objections to the jurisdiction of the court, in the case of McCulloch against the state of Maryland, with a long dissertation on the nature of our government.—On so much of this dissertation as labors to prove that it is not a consolidated one, I will only remark, that it is a truth universally known and universally admitted. No person in his senses ever has, ever will, or ever can controvert it. Any writer who pleases, may certainly amuse himself with the demonstration of this political axiom: but he adds just as much to our political knowledge, as he would to our geographical, were he to tell us, and produce a long train of authorities to prove it, that the United States lie on the western, and not on the eastern side of the atlantic.

But when Hampden says that however "indistinct" may be the language of the court, on this point, "their doctrines admit of no controversy. They show the government to be, in the opinion of the court, a consolidated, and not a federal government." His assertion is neither equally true, nor equally innocent.

The question whether our government is consolidated or federal, does not appear to have been stirred in the argument of the cause. It does not appear to have occurred to counsel on either side, that any question respecting the existence of the state governments, as a part of the American system, could any where be made. The motion of such a point would probably have excited not much less surprize than if any gentleman had thought proper seriously to maintain that there was a bench and a bar, and judges on the one, and lawyers at the other. It is not wonderful then, that the court should have omitted to state such a question in terms, or formally to decide it. But the principles laid down, and the language used, presuppose the existence of states as a part of our system, too clearly to be misunderstood by any person.

The court says, that "the defendant is a sovereign state"; that "the conflicting powers of the government of the union, and of its members, as marked in the constitution, are to be discussed;" "that the government of the union is one of enumerated powers;" "that it can exercise only the powers which are granted to it;" that "no political dreamer was ever wild enough to think of breaking down the lines which separate states, and of compounding the American people into one mass;" "that the assent of the states in their sovereign capacity" to the constitution, "is implied in calling a convention, and thus submitting that instrument to the people;" "that in discussing the questions" "respecting the extent of the powers actually granted", "the conflicting powers of the general and state governments, must be brought into view;" "that the constitution requires" that "the members of the state legislatures, and the officers of the executive and judicial departments of the states, shall take the oath of fidelity to it"

If Hampden can reconcile these passages with his assertion, he will, I doubt not, also reconcile the following, as preliminary to discussing the right of a state to tax the bank; the court says, "That the power of taxation is one of vital importance; that it is retained by the states; that it is not abridged by the grant of a similar power to the government of the union; that it is to be concurrently exercised by the two governments; are truths which have never been denied."

The whole opinion is replete with passages such as these. They demonstrate, as conclusively as words can demonstrate, the incorrectness of the assertion, imputing to it the doctrine that the government of the United States is a consolidated one.

Without making, at this time, farther quotations from that opinion, I will proceed to examine the reasons given for the assertions, that this plain language is "indistinct"; & that it conveys "doctrines" directly the reverse of what the words import. I shall do so the more readily, because, in treating this part of the subject, this gentleman, though he rarely states correctly the opinion he professes to quote, discloses still more clearly than heretofore, his real sentiments, and real objects; and because those sentiments and that object ought, I think, to receive the most serious attention of the people.

Hampden frequently uses, for what purpose let him say, the word "national" as synonimous with "consolidated". Thus he says, "It is not easy to discern how a government whose members are sovereign states, and whose powers conflict with those of such states, can be a national or consolidated government."

I deny that these terms are convertible. The government of the United States is almost universally denominated the national government, or the government of the nation. It is repeatedly so termed in the Federalist, and in other political treatises, and has never been termed a consolidated government.

Hampden defines a consolidated government to be "one which acts only on individuals, and in which other states and governments are not known". What name will he give us for a government "which acts only on individuals," but "in which other states and governments are known?" Such is the government of the United States; and, in a work (a) now acknowledged by all to be a clear and a just exposition of the constitution, we are told, that, according to the definitions of those terms given by its opponents, "it is neither a national, nor a federal constitution; but a composition of both."

But waving, for the present, any controversy about terms, I will proceed to the evidence adduced in support of the charge that the language of the court, on the question of consolidation, is indistinct.

The first is, that "They use the word people in a sense seeming clearly to import the people of the United States, as contradistinguished from the people of the several states; from which the inference would arise, that the states were not known in the establishment of the constitution."

As no particular passage in the opinion is referred to, it is not in my power, by quoting the words of the court, to give a precise refutation to this allegation. I must content myself with the more general, and less pointed observations.

The counsel for the state of Maryland, we are told, contended that the constitution was the act of sovereign states, as contradistinguished from the people. In opposition to this proposition, the court maintained that the constitution is not the act of the state governments, but of the people of the states. In the course of this argument, the term—the people—without any annexation, is frequently used; but never in a sense excluding the idea that the people were divided into distinct societies, or indicating the non-existence of states. It is positively denied that this use of the term, even unaccompanied by those passages with which the opinion abounds, would afford any countenance to the inference "that the states were not known in the establishment of the constitution." Still less can such an inference arise in opposition to the express and repeated declarations of the court.

If instead of using the word "people" generally, and in a sense avowedly contradistinguished from their governments, the court had used the words "people of the United States," not even this language would have had any tendency to warrant the inference which is said to arise.

Will Hampden deny that there is such a people as the people of the United States? Have we no national existence? We were charged by the late emperor of France with having no national character, or actual existence as a nation; but not even he denied our theoretical or constitutional existence. If congress declares war, are we not at war as a nation? Are not war and peace national acts? Are not all the measures of the government national measures? The United States is a nation; but a nation composed of states in many, though not in all, respects, sovereign. The people of these states are also the people of the United States. The two characters, so far from being incompatible with each other, are identified. This is the language of the constitution. In that instrument, the people of the states term themselves "the people of the United States." A senator must have been nine, a representative seven years "a citizen of the United States."—No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of the constitution," is eligible to the office of president. The oath taken by every adopted citizen, is as a citizen of the United States; and we are all citizens, not only of our particular states, but also of this great republic.

The constitution then does not recognize, but rejects, this incompatibility of our existence and character as a nation, with the existence of the several states.—Hampden himself says that the words, "we the people of the United States," in the constitution, do not necessarily import the people of America, in exclusion of those of the several states." And I insist that, so far from excluding, they include, "those of the several states." Surely then the term "the people," used generally by the supreme court, and expressly applied to the people acting in their several states, cannot justify the inference "that the states were not known in the establishment of the constitution."

"The opinion of the supreme court," says Hampden, "seems farther to incline to the side of consolidation, from their considering the government as no alliance or league, and from their seeming to say that a federal government must be the offspring of state governments."

I admit explicitly that the court considers the constitution as a government, and not "a league." On this point I shall make some farther observations hereafter. But I deny "their seeming to say that a federal government must be the offspring of state governments." They have expressly said the very reverse. In answer to the argument, that the people had already conferred all the powers of government on the state authorities, and had nothing left to give," the court says. "much more might the legitimacy of the general government be doubted, had it been created by the states." When Hampden contends that state governments had no power to change the constitution, and represents himself as opposing, in this respect, the opinion he condemns, he is in fact reurging the very argument which had been previously advanced in that opinion. "The powers delegated to the state sovereignties," says the court, "were to be exercised by themselves, not by a distinct independent sovereignty created by themselves."

EUROPEAN ADVICES.

On looking over our London papers again, we find some articles of intelligence, which escaped our notice yesterday.

It is asserted in the German papers, and republished in Paris and London, that another meeting of the Allied Sovereigns is to take place, in the course of the present year. It is said that the meeting will be held at Carlesbad, in Bohemia—and the result anticipated is, that there will be great changes in the north. The Prince Regent of England, it is stated, it is to be present on the occasion.

The Paris papers mention that the king of Prussia is to pass some time in the city, after the summer reviews.

The magistrates of Copenhagen, it is said, "have received a letter from the North American visionary, captain Symes, who will take a journey into the interior of the earth, if he can obtain assistance." A similar letter has been received in many of the cities of Germany.

One of the Dutch papers mention that about 5,200,000 lbs of wool is annually obtained in Holland; and that of this quantity, about 2,300,00 lbs is manufactured in that country.

In an article under the head of Bradenburg, of the 4th of May, it is stated, that on the 31st of April, a fire suddenly broke out at Rothenburg, the county of Mansfield, in the sheepfold of the Baliff, which spread so rapidly that near 1200 fine sheep of the improved breed, were a prey to the flames. Many other sheep, which were saved, are much injured by the fire, and have suffered so much from the suffocating smoke, that very few of them will recover. The damage sustained is estimated at about 17000 dollars. A country woman, 70 years of age, who owed the Baliff eight dollars, and had been frequently reminded of the debt, is supposed to have set fire to this establishment, one of the finest in the county of Mansfield, out of revenge, and is said to be in arrest.

The assassination of M. Von Kotzebue excited very great sensation at St. Petersburgh. His widow and family have left Manheim, and returned to Revel, in Russia.

A paper printed at Altona, in the Duchy of Holstein, mentions, that among other excellent institutions, that city has had for these 18 years, a bank for savings, in which 25 marks and above, may be placed at 3 per cent interest. The deposits amounted, on the 31st of March this year, to nearly 30,000l sterling. A great improvement has just been made; any sum of one mark (16d) and above is received on any day except Sundays and Holidays, and the money may be demanded back at any time; no interest, however, is paid till the sum deposited amounts to 25 marks.

London, May 19.

Mr. Tierney brought forward, last night, his motion for an inquiry into the state of the nation. His speech produced no remarkable effect. His views of the foreign policy, domestic economy and trade of the country were not striking—if we except only the topic of finance. His dialects were less pressing, and his jokes rather faint, and thinly scattered. The motion was sudden and premature. By bringing it on at this moment he deprived himself of two very important subjects—the bank restriction and the budget of the year. The right honorable gentleman began with discanting very uncourteously upon the administration, which he taunted and depreciated with some success.—The first topic upon which he entered was our foreign relations, which he stated to be quite novel. Europe, he said, was under the tutelage of four powers, of which England was one. At the Congress at Aix-la-Chapelle France was admitted a fifth, and strange enough, in a very short time after, the Duke of Richelieu, a confidence in whose councils had induced the Allies to take this step; had scarcely returned to Paris, when he and his administration went to pieces,—a new cabinet was formed, and France, so formidable during the war, appeared formidable again. The right honorable gentleman, after glancing at the Netherlands passed on to America, condemned the cession of the Floridas and the commercial treaty, and observed with great truth, that there was a time when the murder of two British subjects, even though the letter of the law of nations were against us, would not have passed without the demand of "a bloody and a strict account." He then offered a passing prayer to the South Americans, and returned to inquire what ministers had done at Home. In the course of four years of peace, they had, he said, reduced the public debt of 8,000,000l and upwards! by the sum of 5,700,000l.! and, going on at the same rate, they would have further reduced it by 12,000,000l. more! in five years hence! What, he asked, would be the state of the country, encountering a war with such a burden upon its shoulders? The right hon. gentleman concluded his speech with pronouncing sentence of incompetence upon ministers, and professing his own readiness to pass over with his friends into their places. Lord Castlereagh replied, and turned the laugh, if not the argument, against the hon. gentleman. He spoke in a tone of pleasantry for a considerable time, and excited a great deal of merriment at the expense of his opponent. Upon most of the topics relating to foreign countries, refutation was easy. It is not matter of charge against ministers that France has become formidable. There is, it is true, much of humiliation in the forbearance of government towards America. With South America we had no right to interfere. But the dreadful difficulties in which the country is placed, and its utter inability to sustain a war, were unanswered and unanswerable by the noble lord.

This is truly a subject of fearful contemplation.—We have, at least, one source of hope and encouragement.—The gentlemen on both sides of the House have that Roman patriotism which does not despair of the Commonwealth. The Offices of State are beseiged and defended most vigorously.

The debate was kept up to a very late hour, and the motion rejected, on a division, by a majority of 357 to 178.

NAUTICAL DISPATCH.

As a proof of the great facility of communication at present with the United States of America, we record the following fact. A respectable house in this town addressed their correspondents in New-York, on on the 3d of April, by the Triton, Capt. Holcomb, for Boston, which vessel made an extraordinary passage of eighteen days to that port, from whence the letter went by the mail to New York, and the reply dated the 25th April, was delivered in Liverpool on the 14th May, by the remarkable fast sailing packet ship Hector, Capt James Gillender, after a passage of eighteen days. The whole being thus accomplished in the unprecedently short period of forty-one days, the total distance being 6160 miles.

Extract of a letter from one of the officers on board of the private armed schr. LIBERTED, D. Ewing, master, to his friend in Savannah, dated Baltimore, June 13th.

"During our cruize we captured five Spanish vessels, of different descriptions—one of which was double our force, and taken in sight of the Castle guns at St. Croix Teneriffe.

"Capt. Ewing's cool, deliberate, and determined mode of attack, convinces me that he merits more than has or will fall to his good fortune in this cruise. He is determined in action; but carries his humanity and liberality to his prisoners, rather beyond his own interest, for he has suffered no prisoner to be plundered, without returning or refunding the value of the articles lost.

"We had a warm action with a Portuguese brig of war of 16 guns; but left her, in consequence of a frigate and a sloop of war to leeward, beating up to her assistance. We received no injury, only in our sails. We were afterwards informed, that the brig put into St. Antonio, and landed four of her wounded, and reported 6 killed and 14 wounded; and they likewise reported, that they had cut us to pieces, and left us in a sinking condition.

"We have found Baltimore to be very much changed since we left it. No agents to be found to transact any kind of business for us; and I have reason to believe that the captain, in consequence of endeavoring to save himself and all concerned, has nearly sunk all the profits of his former cruise under the Patriot flag. In one instance of his generosity, I saw him pay to the Portuguese Governor of the Island of St. Vincent, his account of 180 dols. for cattle, hogs, sheep, goats and fruit, after shewing him his commission to cruize against his government—the Governor on board, and his town completely in his power, and within half musket shot."

Extract of a letter received at Buenos Ayres dated Chili Santiago, April 5th, 1819.

No intelligence had been received from Lord Cochrane. The U. S. frigate Macedonian, Capt. Downs, had sailed on the 3d from Valparaiso for Coquimbo. The expedition for Lima still contemplated; preparations making, though slowly from the want of funds: Gen. San Martin daily expected at the Capital, and his presence would add spirit to the efforts making to accomplish this important object.

A declaration of war was expected to be declared against the Portuguese government, and that Montevideo would fall.

Buenos Ayres, April 26.

An armistice with Artigas having been concluded and regulations for peace commenced, we flatter ourselves with the pacification of the country and consequent revival of business.

From Chili we are daily expecting interesting news; for by the last advices, Lord Cochrane with his fleet was before Callao, blockading the royal squadron in port, and it was expected that he would attack the place and destroy it;

Capt. Wooster of New-York preserves still his rank in the Chili navy, as the government did not wish to be deprived of his services.

The Macedonian was at Coquimba, and would proceed to Lima when more of Lord Cochrane's operations would be known.

Extract of a letter received at Buenos Ayres dated Montevideo, April 24th 1819.

General Aquiar, one of Gen. Artigas's principal officers who had been taken prisoner by the Portuguese, made his escape from Montevideo, and had collected a number to join him, and was committing all kind of depredations in the vicinity of Maldonado and the adjacent country.

"Valparaiso, March 13, 1819.

"By the arrival of the Andromache frigate from Lima, (on board of which vessel came Judge Prevost,) we learned that the squadron under Lord Cochrane, consisting of the O'Higgins, San Martin, and Lautaro was to enter Callao on the 17th inst in order if possible, to cut out the Esmeralda and Venganza frigates, and Spanish ship San Fernando, on board of which were more than half a million of dollars. We hope in a few days to have news of the result. The Chacabuco Corvette sailed from Coquimbo on the 5th ult. to join the squadron

Owing to the want of money, and to disturbances on the side of the Cordilleras, occasioned by Artigas and others, the government has as yet been unable to realize the expedition against Lima, which has long been contemplated.

Sanchez, and the rest of the royalist troops under his command, have been driven beyond the river Bio Bio, and the whole province of Conception now remains in possession of the patriots.

At the sailing of the Andromache, 14th ult. remained there (Callao) Am. ship Beaver and Two Catharines, and brig Macedonian, of Boston, Boxer, of N. York, and Canton, of Salem.

The government has not accepted of capt. Wooster's resignation, not being willing to be deprived of his services.

Boston, June 28.

FROM GIBRALTAR.

By the Boston, arrived yesterday, Gibraltar dates to May 7, have been received. Ship Alexander, from Lisbon, 2 days, arr. 30th April, with flour—she was unable to sell at Lisbon, or even obtain an offer for her cargo.—Markets dull—flour 6 dollars per bbl. An American brig had arrived at Lisbon from Rio Janeiro, with her outward cargo of wheat, which was selling at 5o per fanega.

We yesterday received Halifax papers to the 19th inst.

Halifax, June 16.—The brig Dominica Packet, of Liverpool, from Londonderry, bound to St. John, with 200 passengers, out 42 days, anchored near Penant Point, on Saturday last, having lost her master overboard; the mate came up to town on Sunday, for the purpose of procuring a person to take charge of the vessel, and proceed with her to St. John.

The Duke of York, Packet, from Falmouth, is in the offing.

SUICIDE.

Miss Hannah Chase, an amiable young lady, 22 years of age, lately drowned herself in a small pond, at Haverhill, Mass. "Her death is indeed an event enveloped in impenetrable darkness. She was a young woman of a good family, possessed of handsome property; and of a pleasant and amiable disposition, and her deportment regular and unexceptionable in the view of all wherever she had resided; she was much respected and beloved. This is the united testimony of all her acquaintances. Why; then in the bloom of youth, under the smiles of prosperity, amidst the kindat tentions of her friends, did she extinguish the brilliant lamp of life by her own hand!

EXTRAORDINARY CHANGE OF WEATHER.

On the 19th inst. a sudden change of weather was experienced, in the neighborhood of Quebec. There was a considerable frost, and ice was seen early the next morning the thickness of a shilling. Vegetation suffered considerably, and some young apples were blighted at Charlesborough, a few miles from the city.

Died,

In Baltimore, on Thursday evening last, LEVIN WINDER, Esq. late Governor of Maryland. The character of the deceased does not require the fulsome strains of newspaper panegyric. His fellow-citizens knew and justly appreciated that unobtrusive, but firm, decided, and unostentatious patriotism which he possessed, and called him from a state of retirement, to preside over the destinies of Maryland—an office that he filled with honor to himself, and dignity to his country, when the hostile thunders of the British bombs were exploding over Fort M'Henry.

JOHN HOPKINS

Hill and Dale, April 20.

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be governed by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment. may 25

Any information respecting him will be thankfully received. Keepers of turnpike gates, toll bridges, and taverns, are particularly requested to give such information as may be in their power.

The above reward will be cheerfully paid on conviction of the perpetrators of this flagrant outrage upon the rights of a freeborn citizen of the United States.

PROSPECTUS

Of a new periodical work to be published in the city of Washington, entitled the

Washington Theological REPERTORY.

EDITORS: { Rev. Wm Hawley, Washington,
Rev. Wm. H. Wilmer, Alexandria,
Rev. Oliver Norris, Alexandria,
Rev. Reuel Keith, Georgetown.

Assisted by several other literary gentlemen of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

IF any apology were necessary for this undertaking, it may be found in the fact, that there is no publication on a similar plan, in all that section of our country lying south of New-York, and but one in the whole of the United States. It has been matter of equal surprize and regret, that the Episcopal Church should be so far behind other Christian denominations, in similar efforts to disseminate the principles of religion and piety. At a period like the present, when the Lord is preparing his way on earth, by the most remarkable efforts of human agency, and the most wonderful operations of his providence and grace—when we perceive in every part of Christendom, a praise-worthy emulation to share in the glorious work of filling the earth with the knowledge of the only true God, and his Son Jesus Christ; it would seem criminal for any to withhold their exertions, however feeble, in the great enterprize of human happiness and salvation. The editors have, therefore, felt it their duty to make this humble effort to supply this acknowledged deficiency on the part of the church in this section of the country, and to bear their share in the common exertions of Christians to promote the Redeemer's Kingdom. And having obtained the services of a gentleman, in whose talents and principles they have confidence, whose time will be wholly devoted to the superintendence of the work, they feel encouraged to solicit the patronage of the public.

The publecation will be conducted under the immediate inspection and control of the above named editors, who will form a committee to review every article intended for publication. The principles upon which it will be conducted are those of the bible, as illustrated in the articles, Liturgy and Homilies of the Protestant Episcopal Church. As members of this church the editors will feel bound to support the Apostolical character of her institutions, the pious tendency of her rites and ceremonies, and the evangelical nature of her doctrines. But in these, and all other discussions, they hope never to loose sight of that great law of charity which teaches us to "preserve the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace."

Acting upon those catholic principles, so long and so successively pursued by "The Christian Observer," their chief object will be to inculcate sound theological knowledge, and to delineate and recommend pure and vital religion. They trust therefore, that while the members of every Christian denomination may find something edifying and instructive, none will discover any just cause for offence in the pages of this work. General subjects of biblical criticism, practical illustrations of scriptural truth, the biography of illustrious persons, evidences of the truth of revelation, essays on the history and polity of the church, reviews of interesting publications, religious, literary and philosophical intelligence—in short, whatever is connected with the promotion of religion, humanity and literature, will find a place in this repository.

The testimony of experience supersedes the necessity of dwelling on the advantages of a periodical publication on the plan proposed. Its obvious tendency will be to render the various departments of religious knowledge more easy and accessible, and give a more ready currency and wider circulation, to those great truths which involve the present welfare and future destiny of man.

It will tend powerfully to stimulate the exertions of the editors, and console them under the difficulties attendant on the prosecution of this work, amidst many other avocations, should it prove the means under the blessing of God, of enriching any of its readers with the saving knowledge of Christ, and prepare them for a participation in the felicity and glory of his heavenly kingdom. With this hope they commit it into his hands, and confidently solicit their brethren of the clergy and laity to assist them in carrying into effect the objects of the undertaking.

TERMS OF THE WORK.

A volume of the Repertory shall consist of twelve numbers, of which one shall be published on the first day of every month, containing thirty-two large octavo pages, stitched in blue, and attended with a table of contents.

The paper used in the work shall be good, and the typography executed with the greatest care.

The price of a volume is two dollars, payable in advance; to such as omit the advance, two dollars and fifty cents.

It is designed to enlarge the size of the work, without increasing the price, as soon as one thousand subscribers shall be obtained.

Communications and remittances may be directed to any of the editors, post paid.

Any person becoming responsible for five subscribers, shall receive a sixth copy gratis.

The first number may be expected in the month of July. June 26
